

2020 International Conference on English Linguistics

We are pleased to announce a two-day International Conference on English Linguistics from Oct 16 (Fri) to 17 (Sat) at Kyung Hee University, Seoul, Korea. The conference is hosted by the Korean Association for the Study of English Language and Linguistics (KASELL), co-hosted by the English Linguistics Society of Korea (ELSOK) and the Korean Society of Language and Information (KSLI), and sponsored by the World English Linguistics Association (WELA).

We welcome abstracts for presentation on any aspect of English linguistics and education in the field of (but not limited to) syntax, semantics, pragmatics, discourse analysis, phonology, phonetics, language acquisition, English learning, teaching, and education, corpus linguistics, computational linguistics, and sociolinguistics.

Invited Speakers (confirmed):

- Anne Abeillé (Université Paris Diderot)
- Andrew Moody (University of Macao)
- Martin Hilpert (University of Neuchâtel)
- Javier Pérez-Guerra (University of Vigo)

Guidelines for Abstract Submission:

We welcome abstracts for oral presentation (25-minute talk and 5-minute discussion) or poster presentation. Abstracts should be anonymous and no longer than two pages in the PDF format, including examples and references, with margins of at least 1 inch in 12-point type. On the second line of the abstract, provide the type of presentation (oral or poster) and area of research (syntax, semantics, pragmatics, etc.). We actively encourage students to submit their abstracts to the poster session. If they get a chance to make a poster presentation, the registration fee will be waived.

Submit the abstract to EasyAbstract by May 30, 2020.
